It is now possible to send the designers suggestions for additional keywords or other forms of new content.

Click here to go to Chemistry Language Blog and send us your suggestions.

Let us know what features you have found useful and what are not so useful, too. What new key words would be helpful, and in what contexts? Would a section comparing the pronunciation of easily-confused words be useful? (I'm thinking of a recent conversation in which someone said "mouth" and I heard "mouse" That was not difficult to decipher - but numbers (90 versus 19 and so on) and negatives (can versus can't) can be hard to distinguish. What would be most helpful?

And thank you!
